Las Hidalgas, SAC women's service club in charge of decorations for the Spring Banquet and Dance are keeping the decorations to be arranged on the many small tables in the Sunset Room of the Pacific Coast Club in Long Beach a secret until 7 p.m. Friday June 10.

Distinguished Grads Honored

Three outstanding Santa Ana college alumni will be honored with achievement awards at the commencement exercises Thursday, June 16 at 4 p.m. in the Student Union.

The new awards, inaugurated in observance of SAC's 40th anniversary will be presented each year to distinguished SAC alumni in the fields of Education, Science, and Public Administration.

Dr. Carl Hagge, '23, Chairman of the Department of Germanic Languages, UCLA, will receive the award for Education. The award for Science will go to Claude D. Hayward, '23, atomic research engineer with General Electric in Chencetady. S. Smith Griswold, '40, Air Pollution Control Officer, Los Angeles County, will receive the award for Public Administration.

Mr. Hayward will be detained in the East because of government projects, but Dr. Hagge and Mr. Griswold will lead the academic procession and receive their Achievement Awards from Dr. Daniel C. McNaughton, director of Santa Ana College.

Dr. Hagge graduated from Santa Ana High School, and during his two years at SAC was president of the Honor Society, resident and vice president of the AMS; business manager of the yearbook, treasurer of the French Club, and a member of the mixed chorus.

Mr. Hayward graduated from Santa Ana High School, and followed his work at SAC, graduating from the California Institute of Technology in electrical engineering. While attending SAC, Mr. Hayward was president of the Associated Students, on the Advisory Board of the Honor Society, one of three students who constructed a 10-inch reflecting telescope for the college.

Mr. Griswold has been in public relations with Los Angeles County since 1933 and last March was named Air Pollution Control Officer. While at SAC, Mr. Griswold starred in football and track, majored in Letters and Science, was an excellent student and was active in student affairs.

Commissioners For Fall Term Chosen

Associated Students President-elect, Russell Behrens announced today that Hal George, art major, and Sophomore Class representative to the AMS will be the next commissioner of Publicity.

Frank Grizzelle, who is commissioner of Publicity this semester will be Commissioner of Assemblies for the fall term. Carol Conner, pre-teaching major, and vice president of Las Hidalgas is the fall term Social Commissioner.

158 SAC Students To Receive Degrees

Associate in Arts degrees will be conferred on 158 Santa Ana College students at 4:00 p.m. on Thursday, June 16 in the Student Union.

Dr. Gordon S. Watkins, provost of the University of California at Riverside, will give the commencement address. He will speak on "Education for an Age of Transition." Dr. Daniel C. McNaughton, director of SAC will confer scholarships and awards to outstanding graduates and alumni.

Mr. C. B. Knickerbocker, vice president of the Board of Education will represent the Board of Trustees in the presentation of the degrees.

Alumni Honored

Three outstanding alumni have been honored by the college faculty and Alumni Association with nomination for first annual Achievement Awards. The awards are being presented for the first time this year to commemorate the college's 40 years of community service.

Outstanding SAC alumni, Dr. Carl W. Hagge, '23 and S. Smith Griswold, '30, will lead the academic procession, which will include the faculty and members of the graduating class. Claude D. Hayward '23, was unable to attend.

Baccalaureate June 12

Baccalaureate will be conducted at 4 p.m. Sunday, June 12, in St. Peter Evangelical Lutheran Church at 15th and Parton Streets. The speaker will be the Rev. Wesley A. Havermale, rector of the Episcopal Church of the Messiah, whose son Robert is in the graduating class.

Pre-Teaching Major Wins Altrusa Award

Annette Schmetzer, pre-teaching major at SAC won the Altrusa $100 award, which she will receive if she continues her studies next semester. She was also awarded a statuette.

Thousands To Receive El Donito

Thousands of former students, and all of the present students of SAC will receive within the next few days, a special 8-page edition of El Donito, which is being mailed over the week-end.

Students who will be transferring to other colleges, or contemplate changes of address before the first fall edition of El Donito is issued, should leave new addresses in the News Bureau offices, G-75 in the Administration Building. El Donito is published four times each year.

Dick Church To Edit Del Ano

Richard Church, SAC sophomore journalism major, has been appointed next year's Del Ano editor, announced Miss Carol Longenecker, yearbook adviser, today.

Church has been Advertising Manager for the El Don this semester.

Lifting of the pre-stressed, vacuum-cured concrete roof and second floor slabs of the Santa Ana College Science Building will begin June 20 or 21, it was announced by Carl Moore, construction superintendent for the Allison Honer Co.

The lift will be one continuous around-the-clock operation until the million-and-a-half pounds of steel and concrete is welded into place on 24 steel columns.

Moore estimates that the job will be completed in three days. The second floor and roof slabs, each composed of two sections will be raised at the rate of three feet an hour in two lifts.

Moore said that the Gymnasium should be completed by July 23. He said that the building will be painted to match the walls of the present college buildings.

Clarence Fledderjohann, inspector for the Santa Ana City Schools said that according to the Twining Laboratories, the concrete used is exceptionally good in both buildings.

Allison Honer officials estimate that the Science Building will be completed and ready for occupancy in October. College Hall, the music and drama building, soon to be under construction, should be ready for use at the beginning of the next spring semester.

Many Thanks

The 1955 Del Ano is being bound by the Bindex Corporation in San Gabriel. It will be ready for delivery on campus next Monday.

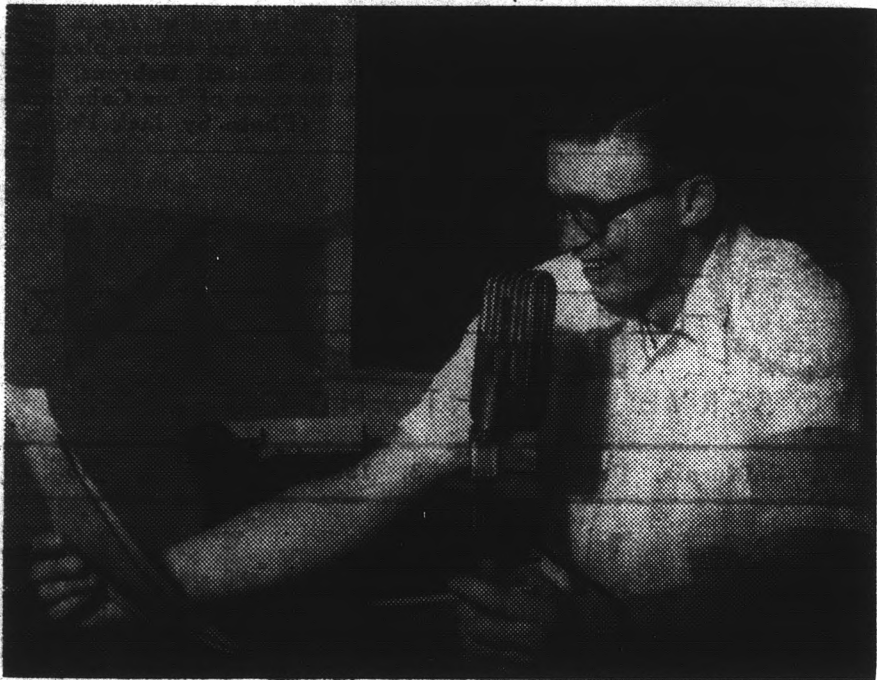

To each member of the staff, the advisors, and everyone on campus whose cooperation and assistance, direct and indirect, made possible the meeting of the deadline I want to give my thanks.

One penalty we suffered by completing the book on schedule was the inability to include in it any activity on the calendar after the Luau Dance. Too, and probably worse, we were unable to mention the State Championship that the track team won. Though it was unavoidable that the book will lack these end-of-the-year happenings, we regret it.

Again, my thanks to everyone.

Hunkins Broadcasts News

"Good morning everyone, here's the latest news from Santa Ana College." These are the cheery words of Jim Hunkins over radio station KWIZ, "1480 on your dial" every Thursday morning at 7:15 during the school year.

He has been broadcasting Santa Ana College news each week that school is in session since last September.

Until Hunkins learned of the West Coast while doing research for an article on job opportunities for students for his high school paper, he lived in Manchester, New Hampshire, "the queen city of the Granite State." He graduated from Bishop Bradley High School in Manchester in 1953.

According to the information he gathered, job opportunities for students were much better in California. Hunkins explained that in the colleges in the East, students live in dormitories on the campus, and also eat there, which increases the cost of a college education. Entering students are advised not to work during the Freshman year.

Plans after graduation next semester include a tour of Europe during the summer, and entrance into San Jose State College the following September.

Miss Lota Blythe, Creative Writing instructor at SAC will address the Honor Society of Orange High School on June 8. Miss Blythe will discuss interesting people she has met on her European travels.

Robert Elsner Initiated Into Skull and Dagger

Bob Elsner, former SAC El Don editor and associated student body president was named to the University of Southern California's highest men's honorary society, Skull and Dagger last week. Along with Elsner, 30 other USC students were named to the Skull and Dagger for outstanding service and achievement.

Elsner was advertising manager of the El Don, and sports and managing editor of SAC's paper while a student here. During this year at USC Elsner is business manager of the school daily paper, Daily Trojan.

When Elsner was graduated from Santa Ana College he was president of Beta Phi Gamma, and in Los Caballeros. He was also chairman of Eastern Conference Student Government Meeting. Elsner was president of the Knights, SAC campus honorary society for men students.

The men named to Skull and Dagger were initiated at a dinner-dance in the Huntington-Sheraton Hotel in Pasadena. Only very few men students out of the student body at USC are nominated each year. Skull and Dagger named 31 students and nine men faculty members at the University this year.

El Don Sports Writer Works On San Jose Daily

Frank Errota, SAC journalism graduate of '49 and presently a sport's writer on the San Jose Mercury, returned to the SAC journalism department for a visit this week.

Upon meeting this year's El Don staff, Errota congratulated the group on winning two top national awards last week, and told them that his experience as El Don sport's editor gave him excellent training for his present position.

"Santa Ana College is the place where I found my interest and my life's work," stated Errota. "I am certainly glad that after getting out of the Army in '47, that I decided to attend SAC."

Errota said that he has kept up on the progress of SAC through his reading of the El Don, and that he has been very pleased with the educational and building growth that the college has been taking part in since his graduation. After his graduation from SAC Errota continued his major in journalism at San Jose State College, and received his B.A. in March of '52.

Immediately following his San Jose graduation Errota went to work as a sport's writer on the San Jose Mercury, a daily newspaper of 90,000 circulation with an average daily paper of 60 pages.

During the past three years Errota has written sports, been makeup editor two days a week and has also been in charge of co-ordinating sports news from the high schools in the Santa Clara Valley.

"The change of activity in my newspaper work has made my job with the Mercury very interesting," stated Errota.

3 WRITERS PUBLISHING

Mrs. Elsa Edwards, a member of the first semester creative writing class at Santa Ana College, recently sold her first article to the American Mercury magazine. Entitled "King of the Square Dancers", it describes the largest square dancing group in the world that meets regularly.

H. A. Linstrom also announced to Miss Lota Blythe's creative writing class that one of his works is to be published this fall. Entitled "Lest We Forget", the book is about the pre-World War II situation as he saw it when he toured Europe just before hostilities broke out.

Mrs. Nadine Crawford of last year's day class has had an article accepted by a new magazine slanting towards the wives of U. S. service personnel, U. S. Lady. Mrs. Crawford is the wife of a marine and her story is called "That Lived in Look".

Associated Women Students Present Gifts To The Hospital

An 18-cup coffeemaker, and an assortment of toys were presented to two wards at the Orange County General Hospital recently by the president of the Associated Women Students of Santa Ana and Fullerton Colleges.

The coffeemaker was presented to the elderly gentlemen in ward 34-West, and an assortment of games and toys were for the new children's playroom.

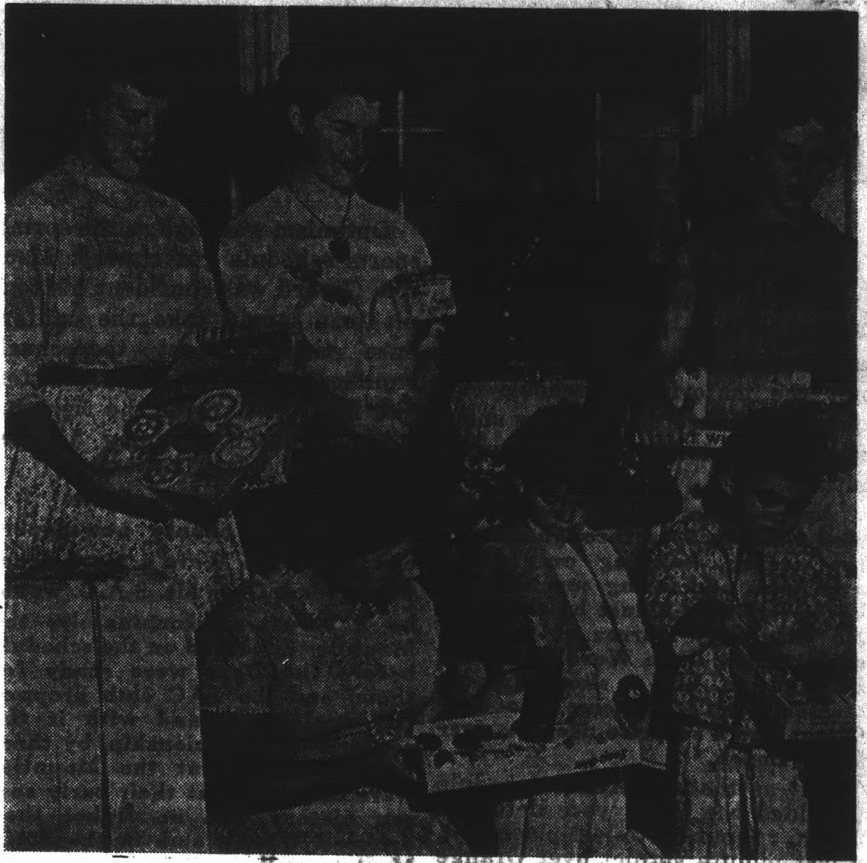

Mrs. Aileen Jeisy Johnson, director of nurses and Ronald Powell, hospital administrator, received the gifts from the AWS presidents Virginia Cook of Santa Ana, and Jane Taylor of Fullerton.

Other AWS officers in the group at the hospital were Barbara Lawrence, vice president, Katie Mobley and Loretta Patterson, Freshman Class representatives; and Sharon Etchison of Fullerton. The students were accompanied by their deans of women, Miss Agness Todd Miller of Santa Ana and Miss Marguerite

Waters of Fullerton.

The two colleges have shared the gift presentation over the years, with such items as wheel chairs, child's walker, bed trays, bedside trays, toys and books. In addition to the spring term gifts each year, the college women also have a Christmas party in the geriatrics wards.

The Santa Ana women have a related project at Christmas time when canned food is collected from all students and faculty for distribution to needy families.

Summer School Starts June 20

Registration for Summer School at Santa Ana College begins in the classrooms Monday evening June 20, it was announced today by Stuart Carrier, director. A tuition fee of $6.00 is charged for all students 21 or older.

Printed schedules will be mailed upon request to the college Evening Division office (KI 7-2611). Counseling is available in Building U until 5 p.m. on Friday.

Classes are being offered in art, business education, English, languages, mathematics, science, social science and civics, citizenship, driver education, and industrial education. A high school diploma or degree of Associate in Arts will be granted to all students who satisfactorily complete the prescribed requirements and courses.

Veterans enrolled in day school who are planning to attend summer school should notify Veterans Counsellor Ernest Crain, and Mr. Otis Knighton, assistant director of the Evening Division.

Salisbury Protege Wins Blue Ribbon

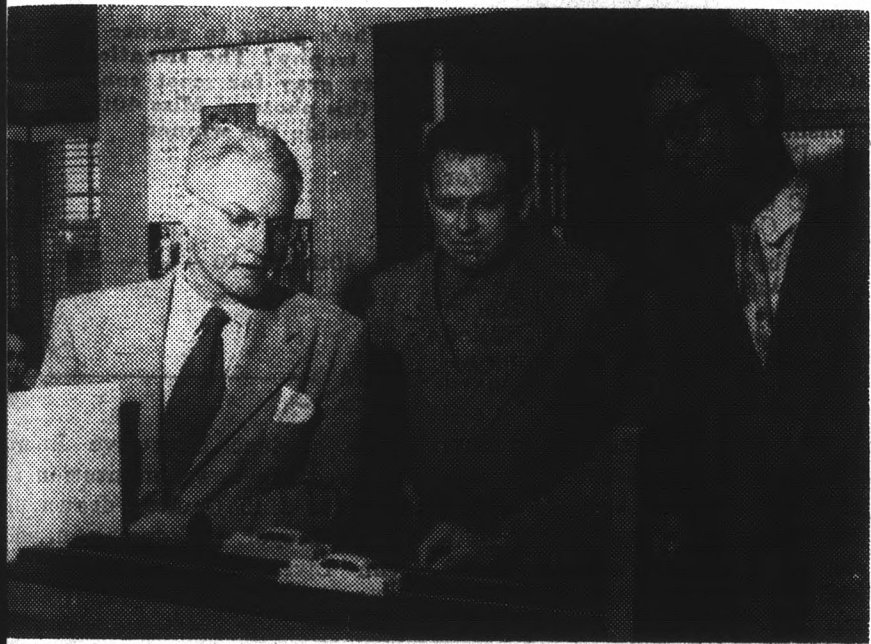

Roland Salisbury, animal husbandry student at SAC reports that a 4-H Club member he supervised won a blue-ribbon first-place award for a 750-pound steer he exhibited at the 4-H Club Fair last Saturday.

Frank Andres, 11, has been instructed by Salisbury in the proper training, grooming and exhibiting of his steer to the best possible advantage in the judging ring.

SECRETARIAL STUDENTS WIN GREGG SPEED TYPING AWARDS

Six Santa Ana College secretarial students have received Gregg shorthand speed awards, based on tests given last semester by Orville G. Bechtel of the Business Education Department.

Donna McCollum was awarded both the 120 and 100 word per minute citations, while other winners were Jackie Crenshaw, 120; Betty Reece, 100; Alice Shearer, 100; Joleen Singletary, 80; and Betty Tibbetts, 80.

Dons Post Superior Athletic Record During Year 1954-55

By Walt Taylor

SAC's athletic record for the year 1954-55 is one to be envied. Probably it is not the best ever attained by a school, but certainly not the majority of schools can claim two conference crowns and a state championship in one year, either.

Agreed, the football team traveled a bumpy road through most of the season, winning only three grid jams and losing seven. After being left in the dust by the Mexico City Poly Burros at the season's outset, John Ward's club did manage to hit a short smooth stretch with a decisive win over Citrus and a surprise decision over Long Beach.

But as the conference schedule unfolded the Dons were detoured to the runner-up-to-last-place slot, a last minute verdict over Orange Coast keeping them from the humiliation of a finish in the league cellar.

Harriers Top Circuit

To compensate for the SAC gridiron showing, Ward's cross country team sailed across the conference seas in championship form, all five Don entries crowding into the first eight spots in the league showdown at Mt. San Antonio. And in the Southern California finals they copped second place honors, behind Glendale.

As the basketball season exploded with an overwhelming win over the Alumni club, fans were mystified. The Dons' reputation as a cage scapegoat was notorious throughout the Southland. However opposing powers found more than a little resistance when they tried to subdue Stu Inman's carefully trained animal this year.

Cagemen Unleash Fury

In 14 of 25 tangles SAC opponents got the worst of the wounds. Fullerton, who had not been defeated by a Don quintet since 1947, is still licking the 62-57 gash it received. A fourth place finish in the conference standings with a 6-6 record was felt by SAC basketball authorities to be more than adequate.

Optimism was high as the spring sports schedule got started. Maurice Gerard was confident his tennis team could take the conference title without too much trouble—and they did. Fullerton and Mt. S.A.C. made the fight interesting, each dropping 5-4 decision to the Don netters.

Spikers Sweep State

As all the county newspapers claimed, John Ward's track team was loaded. Only Mt. S.A.C. would be a threat. Unfortunately, the Mounties appeared on the schedule before the Dons were ready for them, and the SAC club dropped the dual meet, and with it the conference championship, by three points, 67-64. But the Mounties were to prove that their early season victory was no fluke; they dropped Ward's club in the E. C. Meet as well.

Not until the Southern California Meet at Santa Monica did the Don spikers show their true prowess, then two weeks later at the State Meet in Modesto when they outdid themselves to bring home the state crown. So, though placing only second in circuit competition, the Dons proved that they had the best JC track talent in California, and probably in the country.

Cookmen Finish Strong

After spending the entire season in last place, Bill Cook's baseball club pulled two other teams into the cellar with them as the schedule drew to a close. So the Don diamondmen actually finished in a three-way tie for fourth place. That sounds better than a three-way tie for last place, doesn't it? End of the season verdicts over Mt. S.A.C., Chaffey, and top-ranking Orange Coast enabled the Dons to salvage a 4-8 league record.

Ray Echols was the entire SAC golf team this year, and he represented the college well at the conference match, placing second with a 36 hole score of 136, one stroke behind the winning mark.

Being the smallest school of the conference, SAC yelled quite loudly this year, and made themselves heard more than once.

SPORTS

Letters And Special Awards Presented To Athletes At Spring Sports Banquet

What had been planned as solely a Baseball Banquet turned out to be a Spring Sports Banquet at La Fonda restaurant last Wednesday evening. Coach Bill Cook and his baseball players felt it only appropriate that the State track champs and the Eastern Conference tennis kings be invited to the affair.

Baseball Captains Named

Bob Towey was named honorary captain of the 1955 diamond club. A three way tie resulted in the balloting for the 1956 chief, between Al Banks, Frank Grizzelle, and Lloyd Foster.

In addition to these four, the following men received baseball letters for their performances this season: Bob Levigne, Norm Williams, Jim Steffen, Harvey Lara, Bob Lacy, Tom Hillard, and Bill Stone. Stone assisted Cook through the schedule with the coaching duties.

Reed Receives Wreath

Maurice Gerard awarded tennis letters to Bill Reed, Bill Mounce, Chuck Finster, Gary Butler, Derek Lovett, Dick Lamb, Paul Bader, and Bruce Couchman. Reed copped a special award for winning the conference singles crown.

Although SAC had no full-fledged golf team this spring, Ray Echols was recognized for his second place performance in the circuit meet. With a 69 and 67 in the two rounds, Echols was beat to the throne by only one stroke.

State Champs Rewarded

A host of heralded trackmen took home special individual trophies for superior performance turned in during the season. Among them were Tom Frazier, Bill Swishelm, Jim Suverkrubbe, Jim Giyer, Parker Damon, Larry Holcombe, Tom Noll, and Charlie Neal.

Track letters were also presented to Ron Adel, Roy Gray, Lee Mathews, Penny Conradt, Burritt Galloway, Orlan Grunklee, and Jon Winter.

Coast Drops JC Baseball Title

By Louis Barreto

West Contra Costa of Northern California copped the J. C. baseball title of California from our next door neighbor Orange Coast in a two out of three game series 24-5, and 4-3, last Saturday on the winner's diamond.

After defeating the Los Angeles JC twice in a three games series for the Southern California Championship at Fullerton, Coach Wendell Pickens' nine was chosen to represent Southern California for the JC title of California at West Contra Costa.

In the first tilt, hurler Bob Leigh was given the starting assignment against the Northern California team, but Leigh failed to control the W. C. C. hitting attack as the Pirates were smacked for a 24-5 loss.

With Wayne Coughtry hurling, the West Contra Costa nine was limited to six hits, but two hits in the seventh produced the leading run which turned out to be the winning margin of the contest.

Who's going to garner the coveted trophy? The situation seems pretty gray for most contestants. But this photo of Miss 40th No. 10 will decide the winner.
